Spring Festival of the Arts

Arts Education benefits both students and society. Involving the whole child in the Arts gradually teaches many types of literacy while developing intuition, sensitivity, reasoning, imagination and dexterity. Arts education helps students perceive and think in new ways. The Arts also help provide and extend meaning. Much of a child's education in the early years is devoted to acquiring the skills of language and mathematics and to think in a linear and sequential manner. The Arts help to also connect the person and experience directly, building bridges between verbal and nonverbal, logic and emotion, to better gain an understanding of the whole. Both approaches are powerful; both are necessary.

The purpose of the Bedford City Schools Festival of the Arts is to nurture the creative souls of a community, to excite, inspire, celebrate and delight. We are proud of our efforts to enhance the Arts and would like for the community to celebrate the many wonderful events in our district that highlight the musical, cultural and artistic excellence of the Bedford City Schools.
